In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful thirgs in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done as wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their means and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventyfive cents.

A Trick on a Spider,

A great many years ago, a prisoner of state, who was allowed to cheer the solitude of his dungeon by playing on his flute, discovered after awhile that every time he played a great number of spiders gathered about him. Since then, the liking of spiders for music has been proved. I myself had often wished to play for a spider audience, but I was not well enough acquainted with any musical instrument to coax a tune out of it.

A scientific gentleman of Europe gave me a valuable hint by an experiment of his own. He used a tuning-fork. Now, I can play a tuning-fork as well as anybody. I procured a tuning-fork, and then scuebt out a spider. I found a hand body. I procured a tuning-fork, and then sought out a spider. I found a handsome, brand-new web; and, though I did not see Mistress Epeira, I knew she must be at home. Epeira diadema is her full name, though most persons call her a garden spider. It is she who makes those beautiful, wheel-like webs which festoon the resembles and trees.

the rosebushes and trees.

As I have said, Madame Spider was not visible. I knew, however, she must be in her gossamer parlor, which is at-tached to her web.

be in her gossamer parior, which is attached to her web.

Here was a good chance to try tuning-fork music. I rapped the fork on a stone, and in a moment a soft, melodious hum filled the air. I touched one of the spokes of the web with the fork. On the instant, Madame flew out of her parlor in great haste, hesistated a moment at the outer edge of the web, and then, instead of going straight to the tuning-fork, ran to the very center of the web.

When there, she quickly caught hold of each of the spokes, one after another, and gave it a little tug, as a boy does his fishing-line to see if a fish is hooked. Each was passed by until she came to the spoke upon which the humming fork rested. There she stopped, and it was easy to see she was excited. She gave the whole web a shake, then tugged at the spoke again. "Hum-m-m," still sang the fork, rather faintly now, how-sang the fork, rather faintly now, however.

Madame was satisfied. Her mind was made up. Down she darted, and caught the end of the fork in her arms. She tried to bite the hard metal, and at the same time she spun a web of silk around and around the two prongs, which by this time had ceased vibrating.

I pulled the fork away, and Madame Epcira retired in disappointment to the center of the web. But if she was disappointed, so was I; for I was satisfied that it was not the music of the fork that had attracted her. Unfortunately, it was altogether too probable that she mistook the hum of the fork for the buzz of a fly, a sort of music no doubt very sweet to her.

her.

Time after time, I repeated the experiment with the fork, touching in turn each spoke of the web; and each time Madame Spider was deluded into trying to capture the tuning-fork. It was odd that she did not learn wisdom by repeated disappointment.—St. Nicholas.

Painless Regulation.

Painless Regulation.

It is no longer a question of d though the contrary was once believed— that medicines which produce violent ef-fects are unsuited to other than desperate lects are unsuited to other than desperate emergencies. In other words, that superpotent remedies are calculated to weaken and injure the system rather than reform its irregularities. Among medicines of debilitating effect are catharties and cholagogues which copiously and abruptly evacuate the bowels. Because it does not do this, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is preferable to the drenching class of puractives. Painless in its effects, it is sufficiently active to remedy chronic constipation. It relieves by invigorating the Intestines, and enables, not forces, them by nature. Premoting the secretion of bile in normal quantities by its healthfully stimulating effect upon the liver, it is eminently conductive to digestion, and contributes in no small degree to keep the bewels regular.

There will be held a State Teachers' Institute this year, probably about holiday time. Just where it will be held is not yet decided. It is to be boped that Reno will show similar public spirit in this matter this year as in former years and persuade Superintendent Dovey to name Reno as the place. Professor Leroy D. Brown is an old institute worker and should be of special service in the work of this institute. The services of President Aaron Gove, of the National Educational Association, or Superintendent W. B. Powell, at Washington, could be secured. Both of these gentlemen expect to visit the Coast soon and would be only too well pleased to serve Nevada in the capacity of institute workers. In anticipation of the meeting of the National Association in July next, and preparatory to making an educational exhibit of Nevada's schools at this meeting in San Francisco this should be the largest and best institute ever beld in the State.

At the last meeting of the Board of Supervisors of Nevada county, California, $1,000 was appropriated from the general county fund to defray the expenses of exhibits to be made at the California State Fair and Mechanics' Fair, San Francisco. This is the method employed by the various sections of California to boom the country. It is sensible, it is business like, it is just what Nevada doesn't do. Nevada should be represented at the Fairs to be held this year and all other years in Los Angeles, Santa Clara, San Francisco and other large counties of California.

The GAZETTE with its immense circulation all over the western country, can do more to enhance the prices of real estate here and to boom Reno than all other influences combined. A paper always represents the spirit of enterprise in the town. If the business men of Reno will bring in good big paying ads. for Fair week so that the management can afford it, the GA-ZETTÉ promises to do more in the ten days of Fair time to advertise Reno and its surroundings than has ever been done in any one whole year of the town's existence.

of the GAZETTE in printing through Fair week over 20,000 extra copies of the GAZETTE, is not a money making scheme. It is to give the people of Reno and friends of the GAZETTE an opportunity to advertise, which is unprecedented in the history of Nevada journalism.

A Clue to the Train Robbers. Tucson, Arizona, August 18. An important clue to the train rob

An important clue to the train robbery was developed last night. There were three robbers. One went to California the night after the robbery, and the other two took to the Rincoon Mountains, as before stated. Saturday they went to Carlisle, New Mexico. Detective Thacker is now there. He wired to-day "O. K.," which indicated he had the business well in hand. The robbers are said to be residents of Carlisle. It is now semi-officially stated that the amount taken was $71,-000.

LONDON, August 19.
The Inman Line steamer City of Montreal has been destroyed by fire at sea and 13 persons perished. The Montreal left New York August 6th for Liverpool, commanded by Captain Land. News of her destruction was earned upon the arrival at Queens town this morning of the British town this morning of the British steamer, York City, Captain Benn, which left Baltimore, August 4th, for London. This steamer rescued the survivors from the burning vessel and brought them to Queenstown.

The burning of the steamer occurred on the 11th Inst., five days after shaleft New York. A boat containing six passengers and seven members of the crew is missing. The occupants of this boat are the thirteen persons reported to have perlahed. The ill-fated steamer had 320 passengers on board. The passengers and crew of the Montreal were taken off the York City by the tug Mount Ætna. All were accounted for but the 13 persons in the missing boat. It is learned that shortly after the passengers had gone to bed on the night of the 10th, the ship being in latitude 43 north at the time, that they were aroused by an alarm of fire. A scene of consternation ensued and the passengere were greatly terrified when they found the true state of affairs. The smoke caused by the fire was suffocating, nevertheless the passengers dr ssed and got on deck with but little appearance of panic. The fire originated in some cotton stored in the af er main hold, and the curse of the vessel was shaped for New Foundland, 400 miles distant. The flames spread with rapidity and soon burst out with terrific force throughout the midway and after hatchways, the heat being intense. She bad no first-class cabin passengers, bu carried 223 intermediate and 115 steerage passengers.

The steamer was worth $500,000. The insurance is not known. The cargo was principally cotton, lard and oil.

The Truckee Republican wants somebody with capital and energy to erect a woolen mill on the Truckee river near that town. The sugges-tion is timely. The facilities are unequaled anywhere for such an enterprise. We are in the midst of great wool-growing country, and with an inexhaustible water-power sufficient to supply all needed motive power.

The Deer Expedition Dangerous The high Sierras will now swim in blood, and clotte I gore will clog the pure waters of the American river and its mountain tributaries This is, says the Enterprise, one of the most dangerous expeditions that ever started for the mountains. Now it will be still worse. F. B. Mercer, of the Reno GAZETTE, has gone up to Rubicon to join the murderous crew. It is said that Mercer has taken with him two donkey loads of ammunition.

RENO WATER.

A Scientific Analysis of that Supplied the Town and of Hunter Creek.

RENO WATER COMPANY.

OFFICE OF C. M. FASSETT, DBUGGIST AND ASSATER, RENO, NEV., June 28, 1887. RENO, NEV., June 28, 1887.

T. K. HYMERS, ESQ., CHAIRMAN BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS—DEAR SIR: In accordance with your request I have made examinations of three samples of water furnished by you, with special reference to such impurities as would render it unfit for domestic use, and beg leave to present the following report: Sample No. I was taken from the river about ten miles above town, at the point where the Highland ditch takes it supply; sample No 2 was taken from the main reservoir, four feet from the surface, near where the water used in the lown is taken; sample No. 3 was taken from the Highland ditch just before it empties into the main reservoir. The following is a tabulated statement of the results of the lests made:

(In parts per million.)

(In parts per million.)

SAMPLES. |No. 1|No. 2|No. 3 SAMPLES. | No. 1 | No. 2 | No. 3

The ammonia found indicates the proportion of contamination from animal sources, such as sewage, decomposing animal matter, etc., and in Nos. I and 3 is in as small proportion as can be expected in a stream which flows through as many towns as the Truckee; while in No. 3 it is in three times the quantity as in the others, and above the limit of safety—dxed by most authorities at .08 to .12 parts free ammonia, and .18 to .20 parts albumenoid ammonia per million of water.

water.

The second table shows the results obtained from careful evaporation of the water; drying and ignition of the residue in platinum cruelbles, and proves that he water of the Truckee is as free from leleterious matters, prejudicial to health, as that supplied to almost any city of the Union.

as that supplied to almost any city of the Union.

Impurities resulting from sawdust in the river would be shown in the table under the head of "organic solids," but the results obtained show that the amount of such matter is very small; much less, indeed, than is contained in many natural springs, some of which carry five grains or more of organic matter to the gallom just where they bubble from the earth.

The comparatively large amount of total solids in sample No. 3 is accounted for by the fact that the sample was taken from the ditch the second day the water was running in it, after it had been empty for a few days, the water naturally being turbid from fine particles of silt taken up from the bed of the ditch.

The samples all show an alkaline reaction, but so slight as to be immaterial; being less than one-tenth of the limit of safety, placed at "an alkalinity greater than that produced by adding one part, by weight, of caustic soda to one thousand parts of distilled water."

These various results show:
First—That the water supplied to the town through the main reservoir is not sufficiently pure to be used for domestic purposes with safety.

Secondly—That the water in the river is reasonably pure and wholesome, and Thirdly—That the water supplied to the town receives the greater part of its impurities in the main reservoir and its approaches.

As applicable to the second purities in the main reservoir and its approaches.

As applicable to the sawdust question, I quote the following extract from an article on water by Professor S. P. Saddler, Ph. D., Professor of Chemistry in the University of Pennsylvania, etc., etc.: "Organic matter may be derived from exceptable source, such as leaf mould, and the decomposition products of wood, in which case it is practically harmless, or it may be derived from animal sources, in which case it almost always causes a serious impurity."

Respectfully submitted,

C. M. FASSETT, Analyst.

COURTING A WIDOW.

it Differs from Keeping Com pany with an Angel.

There is any amount of fun in courting a young girl who has not become used to it. She swallows all the soft things a fellow says, but when it comes to popping the question or something of that kind, she gets frightened more or less and wants, time to consider until there are enough loopholes for her lover to slip out through without the least bit of trouble, if he happens to see some one he thinks he could love a shade or two better. Young girls are timid and shy in earnest, and if a fellow is not pretty certain he has found precisely the angel he is looking for, he can manage so as to have the refusal of her for a year or more, and at the same time manage to keep his neck out of the reach of a breach of promise suit when he happens to meet some other sweet-faced angel that seems to him to be better suited to his tastes.

It is different with a widow. She some other sweet-faced angel that seems to him to be better suited to his tastes.

It is different with a widow. She gets rid of all her shyness at the earliest convenient opportunity, and finds out the principal things she desires to know of him before she allows him to get acquainted. The school-girl of sixteen trusts herself to a fine young fellow on sixty or ninety days' sight without security; but the widow, like a thrifty wholesale house, goes out and examines the mercantile reports concerning him, and then sells to him on her own terms for cash. She has him sized up before he comes to market, and when she looks as if she were a very artless creature, and fights shy of him whenever he happens to sit a little close to her on the sofa, there are ten chances to one that he will little close to her on the sofa, there are ten chances to one that he will never look any further, but will buckle right up to her and put the question fairly and squarely, and when he has done so she is not going to tremble all over and blush and ask for a week or a month in which to make up her mind. She will just wind her arms around his neck and look up into his face with one of Ella Wheeler's fiery yearns, and before Wheeler's fiery yearns, and before he has had time to catch his breath he will find himself nailed to the cross with a "yes" that pierces him to his very soul.—[Through Mail.

A kiss is a paroxysmal contact be-tween the labial appendages attached to the superior and inferior maxilia-ries respectively of a man and a woman or two women. The younger the parties are the more paroxysmal will be the paroxysm, and in case it be observed by the fond father of the paroxyzed younger lady, there is also likely to be perigee between the paroxyzer's pedetic junction and the phalangeal extremities of the metaphalangeal extremities of the meta-tarsus and other bric-a-brac depend-ing from the lower end of the old gentleman's right leg.
